Introduction

Makerere University is one the greatest institutions in the country Uganda and by far the world all over. Its however characterized by a number of colleges of which these are made of different course programs. The programs that in turn are assigned to students of various backgrounds based on their qualifications run for a specific duration for a given program, each student studies and eventually graduates at this great institute.

However, what exactly happens on ground is what the main focus is about; daily consistence of lecture attendance for students offering computer science. There is necessarily a need to dig deep into the college of computing and information sciences which requires the highest standards of attendance from all students in the different course programs.

This is so because they may develop their full potential during their time of study. The main aim of this research problem is to maintain a culture of excellence, attendance and punctuality. Over the years, inconsistency in attendance for lectures has had a negative significant effect on students as well as their life opportunities.

All the parties associated with the college especially students and lecturers as well as support staff and external agencies to some point do all they can to ensure that excellent attendance and punctuality is maintained at the college. The need to provide education of higher standards for all students and necessity to devise a platform that may require all students to feel valued and welcome is what anticipates making the college a successful learning environment. Lecturers and students play a major role in making the college what it is. Thus, this shared responsibility is what promotes an excellent lecture attendance and punctuality in terms of consistence.

As intended, the goal is to boost a 100% attendance for all students and to some extent all the lecturers so that every opportunity will be used to convey to them the importance of consistent and punctual attendance. This therefore will better progress, both socially and academically; ease with adjusting to college routines, lecture assignments and course works; satisfying learning and also minimization on half-baked students with regards to practicability hence producing upright and trained personnels.
